

The Utica College Department of History

Online Resources Guide

www.utica.edu/history

What's Available To You?

After navigating to the Utica College Department of History Website, the following links can be found in the left hand column. Clicking on any of the links will take you to that webpage.

Announcements & Events: Any upcoming talks, events, or other notifications that are relevant to the History Department will be posted here, including: The History Department Symposium, the Phi Alpha Theta induction ceremony, the Brown Bag Lunch Series, etc.

Course Descriptions: A list of all History courses, along with descriptions and course numbers.

Clubs & Organizations: The Phi Alpha Theta and Herodotus: The History Club websites are located here.

Forms: Any relevant forms or paperwork related to the History major and minor, including: the Independent Study form, the Student Grant form, the Incomplete Contract form, the Degree Change form, and Student Senate forms. This list is updated periodically.

Internships: A list of history internships available throughout the nation. This list is updated periodically.

Research: Two separate websites dedicated to local historical societies and a list with hyperlinks to online primary source archives can be found here.

The History Project: Here you will find pictures from each year's History Symposium, a list of previous issues of The History Project, with tables of content for each, and an order form to purchase copies of the journal.

History 455/456 Students

(or anyone who needs to do primary source research)

Online Archives

Universities, colleges, museums, historical societies, and other organizations devoted to scholarly research are increasingly digitizing their archives. The History Department has assembled a wide selection of online archives that may be useful for both devising a paper topic and conducting research for History 455/456. Although traditional archival research continues to be a crucial component to conducting original research, junior and senior history majors should see if the scholarly online sources available to them through the department website and the Utica College Library will be useful. Please visit the "Research" section of the website, found at <http://www.utica.edu/academic/ssm/history/research.cfm>, for a full list of local historical societies and online archives. If you have suggestions for historical societies or online scholarly archives, please contact Professor Chris Fobare at cjfobare@utica.edu.

The History Listserv

All Utica College history majors and minors are automatically signed up for the department's listserv. The History faculty will periodically send you information about important events, department news, internship opportunities or other events pertaining to the department or the study of history. These emails will always contain the prefix [History Major Announcement]. Please do not ignore these emails!

Frequently Asked Questions:

Can I unsubscribe from the listserv?

No. The email listserv is the primary means through which the History Department communicates with its majors.

Where will messages be sent?

All messages will be sent to your Utica College email address.

Is it possible to subscribe to the listserv using another email address besides the one provided to me by Utica College?

No. As a student at Utica College, you should be using your College email address for all electronic

